BRIEF OVERVIEW

Yulla Kanda Trek

The Yulla Kanda Trek is a hidden Himalayan gem located in the Rora Valley of Kinnaur, Himachal Pradesh. This offbeat trail takes you to the sacred Yulla Kanda Lake, situated at an altitude of around 3,895 meters, known for housing the world's highest Krishna temple. The trek starts from the remote village of Yulla Khas or Rarang, passing through dense oak, pine, and deodar forests before opening into vast alpine meadows with panoramic views of the Kinnaur Kailash range. Covering a distance of approximately 12 kilometers one way, the trek is moderately difficult and ideal for fit beginners or experienced trekkers looking for solitude and spiritual connection.

Best undertaken between May and October, the trail becomes especially vibrant during Janmashtami, when local pilgrims visit the lake. With no mobile network at higher altitudes and minimal commercialization, the Yulla Kanda Trek offers a peaceful, culturally rich, and spiritually uplifting Himalayan experience away from the usual tourist trails.
